

Amanda Jane Miller

January 30, 1959 - February 16, 2026

Amanda Jane Miller, who passed away on February 16, 2026, in Sarasota, Florida, was a beacon of kindness and dedication throughout her life. Born on January 30, 1959, in Toledo, Ohio, Amanda's journey was marked by a profound commitment to her community and a passion for nurturing both people and animals.

Amanda's educational journey began with a LPN degree from Clark State College in Springfield, Ohio, in 1978. Her dedication to learning and service continued as she earned a Masters of Science in Nursing from the University of South Florida in Tampa, Florida, in 2013. Her 50-year career in healthcare was a testament to her incredible work ethic and her ability to care deeply for those she served.

Amanda was married to Bert Issenberg, and together they raised a beloved child, Puff. Her family also included her sister Megan Halpin (Jen Villelli), brother Mark Halpin (Yuka Tsunemi), and nieces Laura Garcia, Salome Garcia, and nephews Sean Halpin and Trevor Halpin. Amanda's warmth and generosity extended beyond her immediate family to many cherished friends.

Amanda was predeceased by her parents, David Halpin and Martha Finch, and her brother Jim Halpin, as well as another beloved child, Frankie.

Amanda's passions were many, including cooking, gardening, horses, sailing, and, above all, her beloved cats. Her life was a tapestry of diverse interests and deep-rooted kindness, reflecting her generous spirit.

In lieu of flowers, Amanda would have loved it if you donated to the Cat Depot in Sarasota, Florida, or any other animal rescue organization that she supported throughout her life. Her memory will bring comfort to those who knew her, as she lived a life full of compassion and dedication.

May Amanda's memory continue to inspire those who knew her to live with the same kindness and passion she did.
