

Charles Stephen Kaszycki

September 28, 1950 - June 1, 2020

Charles Stephen Kaszycki, beloved father, brother, and friend. During his unique lifetime, “Steve” spent time as a stage hand for Jimi Hendrix and many other bands from the 1960’s era. He was an avid “Hot Rodder” at heart and spent his days working on classic cars that won as many races as they did car shows. He was known for having a gift for “gab” and could charm a smile or laugh out of even the most stoic of individuals. He always seemed to have an answer for just about any topic and was always happy to talk about the various peculiarities of life. A Jack-of-All-Trades, Steve seemed to be an expert on just about anything he touched and was always willing to take the time to teach others what he knew. He was not a selfish individual and loyal to his family and friends. Steve lived life to the fullest, doing things others only dream about and most would never believe if it were written as a story. We miss him dearly, but take solace in that he is finally at peace with his father, mother, and sister looking down on us. If there is one quote that he can be remembered for it is “Learn something from yourself by watching me”. That always made us laugh, but rings true for so many things that he accomplished. We love you Steve and will always have you in our hearts. You were a wonderful father, brother, and friend...we miss you. Charles Stephen Kaszycki is survived by his son and daughter, Steve and Keri, his brother Bobby, and his two grandchildren, Gabriel and Samuel. His memory will be carried on in the multitude of creations that he built with his bare hands in the form of classic automobiles. And his spirit will be carried down the drag-strip in his purpose-built classic car that he never got to race, driven by his son and his brother in honor of his dreams. He has finally finished his race and won the championship trophy of life. May you always be remembered as a free spirit.

“ Aww crap....I had no idea....I just found out about this....Steve and I were pretty close for a while back in our wasted squandered youth....he was always such a smart guy....way too smart to continue with the nonsense we were involved with back then...I'm happy to hear that he had a chance to live a full life full of accomplishments...children...grand children...interesting work... and fast cars...he always loved fast cars.

God bless you and watch over you Steve....and thanks for saving my backside on that one night so long ago.

“ You only have so many friends that you can call on anytime day or night and they are there with no questions asked. He was this friend but not just to me.

One great memory is when I was in a car wreck and I called the police first, then steve. Before the rescue or officers showed up Steve was there with truck and trailer ready to help.

He was a true friend and brother to me and will be dearly missed!

We love you steve!

“ Dad was finally getting to the point in life where we could spend time together. Every moment counts, make sure you treasure them...

Today we had Dad's service. It was a small gathering and hot rod meet. As a son, you never know how much a parent loves (or talks about) you until you meet his friends. Thanks to everyone that came and showed your support. I know he appreciates it.
