“ Dan was truly one of the funniest people I have ever known . We would laugh so hard it hurt . We fished , hunted , dated and eventually raised families . We moved a long ways away from one another due to our jobs but we always kept in touch with one another by phone and e-mail. He called me the day before he died . That phone call was by far the most important call of my life. I will cherish it till the day I die.

“ Dan and I went to gradeschool together ,we also joined the workforce together, we both got our 1st job working at a restaurant together called Christians restaurant. We both learned valuable life skills like how to do dishes, lots and lots of dishes real fast as sometimes it was overwhelming. We learned how to cook things like burgers, steaks ,shrimp, frog legs,and much more. We both filled in as waiters ,buss boy janitor or whatever was needed. We were still in school . Looking back it was one of the best jobs I ever had, we worked for a dollar an hour. Not much money but the food was great there was a soda fountain and we learned how to make malts,hot fudge Sunday's etc. The job only lasted a year or so but while in school it seemed like an eternity. The skills we learned there we used our whole lives. Our friendship also lasted our whole lives . We got into plenty of mischief as we were kids, we had to close up as we were clean up. One time after mopping the floor my shoes were soaking wet so I put them in the microwave to dry them . Not recamended as they shrunk to about half the original size. I remember walking home with him barefoot.
