“ I saw David for the first time, not too long after my family and I had moved into our new home in the neighborhood. He asked me to call him Dave. We were going for a walk down the street, past his house about 16 years ago, just before he had to go for his heart transplant. After hurricane Irma hit, I went outside to see the aftermath and that's when we got to really know each other. He was extremely kind, helpful and generous always.

““ I

clearly remember spending many weekends with our boat in their yard while my Dad and Dave worked on the engine to relpace a broken twisted piston in the 25' starcraft while my mom and Barb sat at the little table on the porch. its how i first learned how engines run.
