“ It is almost a year now. I dreamt about you again last night. We were in the high desert in the Arizona mountains, a place we hiked through with mom when I was a young woman. Like most dreams it was that same place...and not. I was about 15 steps ahead of you uphill. Up around the bend, quite out of place, I viewed a lush green canyon and vast ocean view. It was beautiful and reminded me of our time together in Cental America. I looked behind, you motioned that you were tired and didn't want to hike anymore. I pestered...I wanted you to see the ocean and to share it with you. You said no, you were tired, your eyes and face were tired...and we headed back down the trail together. I woke up with tears...missing you.

“ Our family lost an incredible man and heaven gained an angel. Uncle Dave we will all miss you terribly and all of us have such fond memories of you! I was so blessed to live right next door to you for so many years. I will remember all the times I would make you coffee when I was little, to all the conversation and visits we would have. You were such an amazing man and you always listened without judging. You always encouraged me to follow my heart and my dreams. I will always cherish our last visit and best part was seeing you smile and light up when we heard that Harley starts up. It was like the sun was shining on you so brightly. I know you are happy to be reunited with grandma, grandpa, Aunt Bernie and Aunt Cam and I am sure Cammy just can't get enough of you! Someday we will all be together again. I love you and thank you for being such a wonderful uncle to me. My heart goes out to all my family for our loss! I love you all

“ Dad....remember the time Mom hid my Easter Basket on the register vent behind the curtain covering the window to the sliding glass door going outside? All the chocolate melted. That Easter there was snow on the ground. Mom thought the basket in the snow so the candy would get hard. It didn't really work. All the chocolate stuck in the cellophane cracks. I believe that event is the reason I am obsessed with chocolate to this day.

“ So very sorry to hear of your death, Dave. You were just two monthse older than I am. I remember many many happy times when we were kids. Mom and Dad always went to visit Uncle Al and all of you on almost every Sunday. I loved to spend the night especially when Aunt Tess was making bread. Fried, it was so delicious. We learned to play poker from your dad. So many smiles it brings to me of these memories. We used to play "Rotten Egg" and "Ring Around the Bull's Eye" in the dark on your front porch, and used to hide in the graveyard. You were always smiling, so handsome, and just such a wonderful person. You and Gary always reminded me of your dad, who was my favorite uncle. There is a new star shining in the sky, and God has a new angel in Heaven. Give my love to your mom and dad, and hugs and kisses to my mom and dad. Now you can bowl with Dad and Uncle Al in Heaven. I laugh every time I hear thunder because I think to myself that it them rolling a strike!! Will always remember you and treasure all the fun we had together so many years ago. Your cousin, Joycie

“ I'm going to go way back mom always told a story about when she had a baby and the newborn was on her chest she looked out the window and said there were lots of crocuses flowers with a powder of snow on them most beautiful thing she ever saw unknown to her what a gift I was given the two most loving caring honest people I've ever known. Dave was 12yrs older so I'd hear him come in and always a twirl and kiss on cheek but for my favorite adult memo memory was when we all lived on the hill Ed and Alice lived there was to watch him work on his cars we got our lawn chairs grab a beer and bullshit was nothing believe me but that's who he was never stopped always working with or helping someone red bandana hammer in hand with crystal blue eyes and that smile thank you for being the best brother.... Always for me

“ I remember the time I decided to foster a special needs dog (3 months ago). The dog (Eli) had a bunch of stitches on the top of his head and was missing half an ear. He found happiness laying next to Dad; wagging his tail as Dad rubbed his ear and a half.

Someone decided to adopt him. But she brought him back three days later because she said he seemed happier with Dad than he did with her. When he returned Dad said he had to stay.

And now I have another dog. Good one, Dad! ♡

“ Thinking of when dad would come in his old Grey ?92 Chevy Silverado, air mattress in the cab, and camp on the Dry Fork River with me in West Virginia. At times I would be working on the river and he'd go off adventuring on his own. One day in Otter Creek Wilderness he came across a guy and gal that were were simultaneously singing Opera and skinny-dipping. He couldn't go forward cause he didn't want them to see him for fear of perversion. After a couple minutes, and the slow realization that he was a voyeur, he was left with the same conundrum. Eventually he said, as he was known to say, bullshit, and kept walking.
