

Enid Adina Foster

January 19, 1937 - December 14, 2025

Enid Adina Forster, affectionately known to all as “Miss Dotty,” was a beacon of love and kindness who transitioned to rest in the arms of her Savior on December 14, 2025, at the age of 88. Born on January 19, 1937, in Trelawny, Jamaica, she grew up in Kingston, where she attended Sunday School and learned to read and write.

Miss Dotty lived a full life that, while not always smooth, was defined by her tireless work and resilience. As a professional housekeeper, she worked with a singular focus: ensuring her children and grandchildren were well cared for. She was a woman of deep faith; in Jamaica, she was a dedicated member of the Refuge Apostolic Temple in Kingston, and after moving to North Port, Florida, she shared her spirit with her local church community El Bethel Apostolic Tabernacle until her health began to decline.

Known for her immense generosity, Miss Dotty was always willing to help anyone in need. She expressed her love through her passions for singing, cooking, and baking, finding great joy in feeding others. She lived by the hopeful catchphrase, "Where there is life, there is hope."

She is reunited in spirit with her son, Calvin Clarke. Her legacy of strength and compassion lives on through her family:

Children: Roselyn Lewis and Michelle Symes Jureidini.

Sons-in-law: Evans Lewis and Gerry Jureidini.

Siblings: Vincent Foster, Pauline Foster, and Lucille Foster.

Grandchildren: Rohan, Kevin, Damion, Ricardo, Leighton, Marlon, Tanaya, Nicholas, Leon, Brittania, and Javant.

Generations of Love: 22 great-grandchildren and 6 great-great-grandchildren.

Extended Family: She also leaves behind a host of nieces, nephews, and other relatives and dear friends who will deeply feel her absence.

While her family mourns her, they take comfort in her own words: "If you must weep, then weep not too long... my joy is greater than your sorrow because I'm gone to rest in the arms of my savior."
