“ I remember Mcdonalds trips feeding the birds nd a new bike every birthday. Then I remember playing cards pushing him on a skate board from one end of the house to the other... my last memories of him is him doing everything he could to be just as good of a great grandfather to my daughter as he was a grandfather to me.

“ Well, Mary Ann, you and I know Bud is now smiling down on you and he will watch those hurricanes from the best view ever. You gave him a family and that is the greatest gift of all. Love Mom and Harry sends his love too.

“ All I can do is paint an image, an image of what a five yearold boy saw as a 12 foot tall old man. An old man that would show up for trips to McDonalds that meant the world, a man that, despite the weight of the years, still had the strength to chop wood even when younger men had given up, a man of inspiration and strength. That was my grandfather.
