

Fred Cartwright

July 30, 2012

Frederick "Fred" Cartwright, age 80, of Naples, passed away July 30, 2012 in the company of the love of his life, Diane.

Fred proudly served in the US Army, Combat Infantry, during the Korean War. Formerly of Rochester, NY, Fred has resided in Naples since 1992. After a long career in law enforcement, Fred retired with honors as Police Sargeant with the Rochester Police Department. As a volunteer fire fighter, Fred received the Gold Seal Award for saving eight lives during his career. After retirement, Fred pursued his love for classic cars. He is most remembered for his 1962 Red Rambler classic and "Glendora" the Glamorous speaking mannequin.

A memorial was held at sea, in the Gulf of Mexico, with family and dear friends.

“ I had no idea of Fred's passing. We were special friends, and very close, for many years. He was much older than I, but that didn't matter. He was a model, and we did a few fashion shows together in Rochester, New York. Rest easy Fred. You are deeply missed.

“ For my dear friend "Freddy" and Diane. I will miss seeing you at Publix, but your memory will remain with me. You were a proud soldier and I only wish I would had the honor of serving with you. Rest in peace my friend and I will see you on the other side. Save me a seat so we can share our freindship again.

“ I had the pleasure of seeing Fred frequently as a patient and traking care of his chronic pain for several years. He was a tough guy, very gracious to our staff, and" soldiered on" with his car shows and other activities in the face of some very serious pain. Dr. James Worden
