

George C.J. Bigar

January 29, 1957 - May 2, 2016

No obituary found for this tribute.

Tribute Wall

“ George C.J. Bigar

October 09, 2023 at 02:01 AM

“ George C.J. Bigar

January 28, 2023 at 12:09 PM

“ As Randy Smith noted, "George lived a life summarized aptly by his Albanian yearbook quote, "Boldness, boldness, and again boldness!"

I was always happy to hear him remind me that "We've known each other since nursery school!" I remember his skills at stringing racquets in the tennis shack and his body building phase, when he liked to pop tennis balls in his hands.

He showed Karen around Dallas in grand style when she was there for a conference, and he took me to Laurie's Steakhouse in 2005 when I was in Plano for a girls' soccer tourney.

His life as chairman of Veritas Advisors seemed to take him all over the world, from Dallas to DC to Switzerland.

Brooks Clark - May 04, 2016 at 12:36 PM

“ 1 file added to the album Memories of George

Brooks Clark - May 04, 2016 at 12:33 PM

“ 1 file added to the album Memories of George

Brooks Clark - May 04, 2016 at 12:32 PM

SW

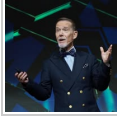

I still have the gold cross pen that cute, charming and debonair George gave me for High School Graduation (1973, NCS). He and David Albert each gave me gold cross pens - they gave them to me together - they were such close friends. I hardly saw George again through the years, but once attended a party for him and his new wife, at their Kalorama Ave. home. I loved my memories of him - he was the spice of life. He used to carry around a cigar, and we all knew he was not only destined for greatness but he was already great. George was like no other - he was Bigar!!

Sandy Boek Werness - May 13, 2016 at 08:57 PM

I met George in Zurich at his favorite places in Zurich either the Widder or the Kronnenhalle . He was always bright polite and carrying an edgy sense of humor. My condolences to his son George and to the others close to him.

David Pinkerton - June 01, 2016 at 05:12 AM

George was a great friend of mine at St. Albans and even through medical school. I would drive up from Duke and have dinner with him before he moved to Dallas. I kept up with him but will always remember his wonderful skills at the piano, his infectious laugh and his stately manners. One time while I was in college and home in DC on break, George and I dressed in tuxedos just for fun and went to Georgetown to walk around and visit some bars. We had a blast! I will always remember the wonderful and generous nature of my friend George and I give all his family and friends my deepest condolences. The world's light is a little less bright without George. Rest in Peace my friend. David Albert, MD

David Albert - June 18, 2016 at 06:28 PM

SF

Shocked to hear of his death today in the STA Bulletin. George was one of my best friends at STA; a great guy, great sense of humor, generous, brilliant, huge energy, a beautiful pianist (I had the opportunity of hearing him play any number of very difficult and magnificent pieces at the piano in his mother's town house just across from the Close.). He was a true renaissance man and a truly decent man: a rare combination. A great loss to all of us. Steve Foley

Stephen Foley - September 30, 2016 at 08:30 AM

How terrible. I just found out that George died. We were high school sweethearts at Eberhard. I was trying to call him to ask after his favorite restaurant, The jockey Club, when I found the obit. We last talked in '12. He was a devilishly fun young thing.

Diana Lanni - September 03, 2017 at 05:27 AM

RE

How unfortunate. Rummaging through a giant stack of business cards, I just came across George's card and started digging online. I met George in the Widder around 2010. Instant good chemistry, joyful character, ready smile. I had a brief but mystifyingly good time sprinkled with smart talk and fun. A man surely to be missed by many, hence my - belated - condolences to his family and all, who knew him.

Ron van Es - January 18, 2018 at 11:12 AM

Meikel
Farmer

My cellphone just reminded me it would have been his 62nd birthday today...I can not turn of this reminder...

Thank you for the time we had at the reception of Widder.

It will always be a part of me.

Enjoying a Dimple at the front :-)

"What'll it be"

Meikel Farmer - January 29, 2019 at 08:43 AM

LB

As a very young woman, I was in love with George, his wit, his charm, his keen intellect, his sharply-honed skills at the piano, chessboard and tennis court. My first trip to New York was with George, as were many other firsts. Our friendship continued for decades, visiting for the last time in 2009. When I learned from another STA alum of his death, I was greatly saddened. I'll never forget this brilliant, intense young man.

Lelia Sinclair Baldassari - March 15, 2020 at 03:39 PM

I knew George when he worked at The Georgetown University Shop...A great guy...We reconnected in 2007 in Washington, DC at a conference...I just learned of his death...Does anyone have any contact info for his family?...

Mike Flanagan - December 30, 2025 at 12:12 PM