

Jean Maurice Ouellette

March 2, 1944 - June 5, 2026

Remembering Maurice “MeME” Ouellette

Today we remember and celebrate the life of Maurice “MeME” Ouellette, a father, grandfather, and friend. While dementia ultimately claimed his memory, it never diminished the impact he had on the lives of those who knew him.

Maurice leaves behind four children and three grandchildren who will carry his memory forward. During the last two years of his battle with dementia, he was surrounded by extraordinary love and care. His daughter Marie, his son Marc, and his grandson Dakota devoted themselves to ensuring he was comfortable, cared for, and never alone. Their compassion, patience, and dedication were a testament to the deep love they shared for him.

Though dementia gradually took pieces of who Maurice was, it could never erase the life he lived, the family he built, or the countless memories he created. Those who knew him will remember his spirit, his stories, his laughter, his grumpiness and the love he gave to his family.

As we mourn his passing, we also celebrate a life well lived. May we find comfort in knowing that his struggle has ended and that his legacy lives on through his children, grandchildren, and all those whose lives he touched.

Rest peacefully, MeME. You will be deeply missed, lovingly remembered, and forever cherished. 