“ I don't know how to start this off, so i guess i will just be honest (respectfully), even though you were never there financially or phisycally and for whatever reasons i will have to accept them i may not like it but it is what it is, I'm pretty sure if you had any remorse or symphaty in your heart knowing that you had a son out there in the world which by the way is (ME) and knowing that a white man.....(A JEWISH WHITE MAN) was raising your biological son as if he was his own, that in itself had to eat you up inside, i didn't ask to come into this world, you and my mother decided that for me....she stayed....you didn't. Going foward....as i was old enough to know who you were even though i already had my Dad Len Kaminsky in my life, for some wierd and strange reason i enjoyed being in your company, i thought you were cool with all your cars and stuff and believing when you would always tell me that you could beat up Batman and Robin, i really believed that stuff and couldn't wait to go home and tell my mother and friends what you had said, i thought i was the coolest kid on the block telling my friends that my biological father could kick Batman and Robins ass....lol.....I also remember you coming to pick me up in your big tour bus and always showing off to my friends that my father was driving that big bus.....i was the coolest kid that day and all the other days you would do that. Was that enough to make up all of my lifetime as a child that you were not there.....No....it wasn't, could you ever be the dad that Len Kaminsky was to me.....No.....not at all, but i know you tried and in my eyes that was enough, because no matter what you said or felt of me i always wanted to hang out with my father (YOU), i needed to know who i was and where i came from, you see their are behavior traits that you learn and their are behavior traits that you inherit via bloodline, i wasn't always happy with your behavior towards me and as i became a man i was able to express myself towards you, i know i said some harsh things to you in the past, but they needed to be said, at the end of the day i always managed to answer you calls, because you were my father and no matter how angry i got with you i still had to honor my bloodline and your blood flowing through my viens. Mom taught me to be strong and true to my feelings and to never hold my tounge, my (Dad Len Kaminsky) taught me unconditional love and happines, and whether you know or not, you taught me my DNA....the blueprint on how to be myself, a better version of you, i forgive you for all the wrong you have done to me and my mother in the past cause nobody is perfect not my mother, not my Dad, not me, nor you, but i will always honor and carry your name with pride, now i know who i am because of you trying to correct the mistakes you had made in the past.....and your grandsons will carry your name with honor and pride also, thank you for the bus rides and the cool stories.....your Son Derek John Nazario.
