

Mildred Way Cookman

October 11, 1923 - January 18, 2019

No obituary found for this tribute.

Tribute Wall

“ Mildred Way Cookman

October 09, 2023 at 02:01 AM

“ Mildred Way Cookman

January 28, 2023 at 12:09 PM

“ *What a great lady, mother, grandmother, & my aunt.
I was extremely fortunate that she was my "adopted mom". I asked her once "did you ever think you were adopting me for ever?"
She answered "weIIlll yessss!"
She had a fierce & undying love for all her family. If you ever doubted it,
then just cross it !
She fought a tough fight the last few weeks! But like Melissa said
"Aunt Midge never was one to quit on anything, so I doubt she's gonna quit now!"
Unfortunately it was an unwinnable battle.
But, she didn't quit !
She is & always will be missed but, we will always have the memories !
"What in the name of sense!"
"Dag nabbit!"
"You gonna cook what where?"
"You really gonna eat that?"
Memories!*

Harold Cookman - January 21, 2019 at 10:05 PM

JH

“ I can remember traveling to Florida in the fifties. Dad would sleep in the reclining chair in the living room beside the trailer, and the sulfur water was bad back then. Mom brought her little coffee pot in 2009 to the nursing home and fixed coffee for both in the room. Pat complained later because Midge wanted her to also fix some good coffee.

---

Jon Holtzleiter - January 20, 2019 at 06:39 PM