“ Each of us find, with our journey through life, that our parents are our teachers, mentors, friends and/or guides. We as their children, take from them that which we needed the most, and hopefully we've honored them by doing the best with what they had to give. Their lives continue to live on in their children and in those that have been touched by their thoughts and deeds. Can there be more than this, of a legacy? Mrs. Shepard did GOOD, Real good!
