

Robert Lee Sunday

April 17, 1952 - November 24, 2015

No obituary found for this tribute.

Tribute Wall

“ Robert Lee Sunday

October 09, 2023 at 02:01 AM

“ Robert Lee Sunday

January 28, 2023 at 12:09 PM

“ The shock in his voice when I called him up from California, it was late due to the time difference in Indiana and he was in bed. A woman answered the phone and I said is "Bobby there" with my heart beating out of my chest, as I was contacting my brother for the first time. At the time I was in my late twenties or early thirties. He said "hello" and I said "this is your little sister," Bobby replied "yeah, right" sarcastically and I responded with just as much sarky with "yeah, right!." From that moment on he called me "Sissy." We had a lot of laughs when he told me how Tammy just wasn't buying the "it was my sister" story, since, well - he was an only child.

Debra Lee Sicilian

Debra Sicilian - November 30, 2015 at 05:48 AM

“ Bobby was my brother I didn't meet him until I was older and had my own children, my fond memory of him is when he drove a boat for us, my sister me and my kids around the back bay in Fort Myers it was a fantastic day we all had a great time and he was Captain Uncle Bobby that day and will remain in my heart that way forever...

God bless you & rest in peace Bobby

Love,

Your sister Jackie

Jackie Sicilian - November 26, 2015 at 07:10 PM

I remember well, the kids were gonna drive the boat that I just rented and I was scared. So, I ran over to get our red neck brother who sure as hell knew how to fish, boat, hunt, nothing like us suburban girls. It was a beautiful day and we jumped out in the back bay to shell with the kids - Bobby was at his best that day.

Debra Sicilian - November 30, 2015 at 06:07 AM

RS

I am grateful that we got to meet on 2 different occasions. It was very sad that you were a secret for to long.

Richard Sicilian Brother

Richard Sicilian - November 30, 2015 at 03:24 PM