“ To my very best friend, Roger.
Roger and I grew up together since the 3rd. grade at Beckwirth School. We lived a few blocks away from each other in the Old Mayfair District. Played ball together and played on our home made rafts in the swamp at the end of Minerva Dr. As we got older, Roger moved away with his family. Years later, we hooked up again (another story), and became inseparable until he left for the Marines. Almost a year later, I was drafted and entered into the Army, and the went to Vietnam. I was in a artillery unit in the Central Highlands only about when a supply helicopter landed at our outpost and this Marine got off with no helmet or flack vest on and armed only with a .45 cal. strapped to him. It was Roger. He took hops from base to base from the DMZ, where he was assigned, and came down to be with me. The best 3 days in Vietnam.
After we both got out of the service, we stayed real close. Actually we called each other "brothers". And the rest is just history, until that very sad day that we all list this great friend, father, brother, and uncle.
God Speed my brother, and until we meet up again in heaven.

“ To my life long friend and fellow MARINE. Roger and me became close friends while serving in the Marines in Viet Nam. We both lived in Flint at the time so remained close friends after we got out of the Marines. I am going to miss our conversations and comradely. We are sending our prayers and condolences. Wayne McComb and family.

Roger, there will never be another Best Friend in this world than you have been. The great times together since the third grade. We have done so much together, and have made so many memories. Times that will never be forgotten. A visit from you while in Vietnam was one of our greatest times. To find your way from your Marine camp in the north to the Central Highlands in Vietnam just to be together. Our boyhood days, our dreams that we would grow up as Brothers, and to have it all come true as Best Friends Forever. We will miss you greatly my dear and honorable friend. Until we meet up again.
