

Ron Allen Bush

November 11, 1954 - March 3, 2016

No obituary found for this tribute.

Tribute Wall

“ Ron Allen Bush

October 09, 2023 at 02:01 AM

“ Ron Allen Bush

January 28, 2023 at 12:09 PM

“ Ron Bush was a very close friend and a great person! Always there if you needed a hand. Always laughing and making you feel happy if you were down. His achievements and accomplishments in life were many, mostly volunteering and helping others. We were best friends all our lives. There was a time he was on the street for a few month while going through a tough time, but if you knew him he was back to a normal life and all the while helping others. I know his son very well and he was never in prison I don't understand why someone would ever get such an idea. His son is currently in college earning his masters degree in biochemistry, and works for a private firm. My good friend rest in the peace you so richly deserve as someone who has helped so many others. You will be missed.

Adrain Alcott - December 10, 2016 at 12:37 AM

“ Ron was a simple man who spent most of his adult life on the street with his childhood sweetheart Linda who was his wife. He was happy to have housing the last 8 months of his life. He left behind his wife Linda who is also cognitively slow and on her own now. They had one son who is in prison.

Andrea Bussiere - March 25, 2016 at 09:00 PM

BB

The above is completely wrong- Ron Bush's son is not and has never been in prison- There was a short time that Ron lived on the street only because he and his wife would not accept help from social services - most of the time he lived in a nice apartment with the help of his parents and social services. I don't know who wrote the above, but they must have gotten the story from someone who did not know him well. He was a kind man.

---

Brenda Bedford - December 06, 2016 at 10:33 PM

AA

Ron Bush was a very close friend and a great person! Always there if you needed a hand. Always laughing and making you feel happy if you were down. His achievements and accomplishments in life were many, mostly volunteering and helping others. We were best friends all our lives. There was a time he was on the street for a few month while going through a tough time, but if you knew him he was back to a normal life and all the while helping others. I know his son very well and he was never in prison I don't understand why someone would ever get such an idea. His son is currently in college earning his masters degree in biochemistry, and works for a private firm. My good friend rest in the peace you so richly deserve as someone who has helped so many others. You will be missed.

---

Adrian Alcott - December 07, 2016 at 01:03 AM