“ I doubt there is a little sister on the planet that could design a more perfect BIG BROTHER.

My childhood is filled with so many happy, wonderful, adventurous and sometimes scary moments. But always there, standing near, Steve was watching over me to make sure that I was ok.

He did this while at the same time, picking on me, torturing me, throwing my off the roof, or otherwise - making sure I wasn't a wimp.

Steve taught me how to ride a bike, catch a fish, row a boat, beat up the neighbor boys, how to not get caught, how to properly go trick-r-treating, climb trees, jump over the canal on bicycles, skip stones, shoot a gun, avoid running into cactus on horseback, how to pick up a dead snake, how to have fun in whatever it was we were doing.

As I look back, I know that he had indeed taught me how to have the strength to face life's challenges. And I was so incredibly lucky to have a big brother named Steve.

The only way I can fill this giant hole in my heart, is to keep his memories close to me everyday.

My Brother, my friend, my greatest mentor - I will always love and cherish you.

Hey Stevareno! I bet you are up there reeling in a big one today!

“ Dear Carol and Brian,

I met Steve in 1998 when Angela, Ken and I attended a coastal conference at Captiva. I met Steve at his home and later saw him as I left to return to California - waiting patiently for Angela under one of the beautiful trees at the resort. Dressed Florida casual with a graciousness of manner and sweet disposition, Steve was everything one could want in a brother.

I am so sorry he is gone so soon. You are in my thoughts and prayers.

“ My dear brother, I already miss you more than I can possibly say. All the unfinished plans that you and I and John and Carol were going to do. Carol you are so special, my brother loved you so much, you can see it in all the pictures of you and he. Whenever he wasn't with you he was thinking of you. Brian, Steve couldn't have asked for a better son, we were all so proud of you as you and Hazel were married. He loved you deeply and watched you grow into the kind of man that he was, caring, loving and thoughtful. What can I say, I've just lost my darling brother, my heart aches for all of us. Be with the angels my sweet. Love, your sister, Angela
